Day 3

Ngorongoro Crater Safari and Return to Arusha

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch

Descend into Ngorongoro Crater for a memorable game drive in one of Tanzania's most remarkable wildlife areas. The crater's varied habitats support elephants, lions, zebras, hippos, and many resident and migratory bird species. After exploring the crater and enjoying the scenery of this natural amphitheatre, begin the journey back to Arusha, where your 3-day Serengeti and Ngorongoro safari concludes.

FAQs

What is included in the most epic 3-day Serengeti Balloon Safari?

The package includes 4x4 safari transport, park fees, campsite or lodge accommodation, meals as stated, drinking water, a professional English-speaking safari guide and chef, Serengeti game drives, Ngorongoro Crater safari, and balloon fees.

When is the best time for a 3-day Serengeti Balloon Safari?

The best time is usually from late June to October during the dry season. January and February are also good months because the wildebeest calving season can attract strong predator activity and excellent wildlife viewing.

Does this package include the Serengeti hot air balloon ride?

Yes. The package includes balloon fees, and the balloon safari is planned for sunrise in Serengeti National Park, followed by a bush breakfast where arranged by the operator.

Can I see the wildebeest migration on this safari?

The safari gives an opportunity to see the wildebeest migration, especially when travel dates match the seasonal movement of the herds. Exact sightings depend on rainfall, wildlife movement, and the time of year.

How much does the 3-day Serengeti Balloon Safari cost?

The package starts from USD 1,900 per person. Final pricing depends on travel dates, group size, accommodation type, balloon availability, and confirmed safari services.
